Tim McMillan

Founding Partner, Garrison Strategy (former CAPP President and CEO; former SK Minister of Energy)

Tim was raised on a farm near Lloydminster then attended the University of Victoria where he graduated with a degree in economics. Following university Tim established an oilfield service company and a cow calf operation in Saskatchewan. In 2007 he was elected as an MLA in the riding of Lloydminster. Tim held several strategic Cabinet Portfolios, including Minister of Energy and Resources, and Minister of Trade. In 2014, Tim joined the Canadian Association of Petroleum Producer (CAPP) as President and CEO. For 8 years Tim led the industry association in its broad range of advocacy efforts across the country through some of the most tumultuous times the industry has faced, retiring from the role in 2022.

Currently Tim is a founding partner at Garrison Strategy, where he draws upon this experience in public policy, regulatory and as an experienced communicator to achieve results for his clients. In his free time Tim serves on several boards that contribute to a stronger Canada.
